Mr. Charles U. Williams, trustee, has just closed a deal by which he, as trustee, becomes the purchaser of the valuable Enst Main Street property, Nos. 726 and 728. The two lots, with the store houses thereon were purchased, one from Valentine's estate and the other from H. C. Brown & Sons. Mr. Williams paid for the two properties $18,000.

The lots are now occupied by two-story buildings, one of which is used as a barber shop and one as a harness and saddlery establishment. It is understood that those will be torn down by the new owners at an early date and a splendid building, somewhat of the skyscraping order, will be erected in their places. Beautiful and Successful Bazaar Being Held at Old Bijou.

The bazaar, which is being given at the old Bijou Theatre by St. Agnes Guild of Monumental Church, for the benefit of a room in the Retreat for the Sick, is proving such a success that it will probably be cantinued next week, though it was expected it would close to-morrow night. There are a number of interesting features which are drawing many visitors each night,

Chief among these is the military drill in which forty odd pretty maidens partleipate. These young girls clad in in white and bearing United States flags were trained by Captain George N. Skipwith and Sergeant Stubbs, of the Sev-entieth Regiment and their part in the programme each night creates great en-programme each night creates great enthusiasm.

The officers and privates in the company are as follows:

Captain, Francke Teller; First Sergeant, Louise Hickerson; Right Guide, Jean McGraw; Corporals, Lucy Goode, Louise Hall, Jessie Hutchinson, Ruth Hutchinson, Marion Johnson, Bert Myers and Virgie Petitt. Privates—Annie Allen, Ethel Boudar, Genevieve Burroughs, Ruth Cowles, Francis Crane, Ethel Davis, Bertha Dellereux, Cornelia Ellington, Elizabeth Gafnes, Myra Gills, Etta Godsey, Nannie Hall, Edna Hickerson, Nettie Johnson, Florence Lecch, Elizabeth McGraw, Alline Moore, Helen Moorehouse, Linda Presston, Mattie Preston, Annie Richardson, May Spindle, Ruby Taylor, Sarah Thornton, India Thomas, Mary Trueman, Elizabeth Watkins and Maude Trueman, Elizabeth Watkins and Maude

Another feature of interest is a Demo-cratic primary in which persons may vote for all State and city officers shortly to be chosen.

Governor Montague is slightly leading Senator Martin for the United States Senate and Willard is ahead for Governor with Swanson as a close second. Mr. Ellyson leads his opponents for the second place, though there are many votes for Mr. Cabell.

A hard race is on for Satate Senator, Colonel Anderson and Mr. Ainsile running neck and neck.

Captain Cunningham has a majority of votes so far for City Collector. There is much interest in all the other fights.

GOOD MAN GONE TO HIS REWARD

Mr. George W. Shepperson Passes Away at an Advanced Age.

ONE OF OUR OLDEST PRINTERS

Member of Firm of Whittet & Shepperson From Its' Organization-Funeral To-day.

Mr. George W. Shepperson, one of Richiond's oldest printers and publishers, and member of the firm of Whittet & Shepperson from its formation nearly forty cars ago, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 309 West Marshall Street.

Though not unexpected by his family and closest friends, the death of this good nan was a shock to the hosts who loved failing for several years and for some nonths he had been confined to his home most of the time, but his cheerful spirits and strong will-power led those who loved him most to hope that he would that he could not last long.

Good and Useful Man.

Mr. Shepperson was a native of Richmond, and was a devoted son of the city and State. A few months more and he would have reached three score and ten. His life was a busy and useful as well as long one. He entered upon his trade in spressman when a mere boy and in his early life was associated with some of the older printing houses here. Richmond was then a small city as compared with the Richmond of to-day. The modest man, who rejoiced in the steady growth and prosperity of the city, was, as an upright and successful business man, a factor in this growth. When the war factor in this growth. When the war came on, Mr. Shepperson was enrolled for service but was exempted on account of his trade by which he was able to render valuable service to the Confederacy, He, like all the other men who were able, assisted in the home defense. Soon after the war Mr. Shepperson formed a copartnership with Mr. James Whittet in the firm of Whittet & Shepperson, printers and publishers, which has grown to be one of the largest in the State. The firm continues to-day as it begun, except that the sons of Mr. Whittet have been admitted. The personal relations between the two men have been as close as their business ues. Their devotion has been like that of brothers.

Their devotion has been like that of brothers.

Mr. Shepperson was a good man and his life was a benediction to the community. In business, in his social relations, in the home and in the church he represented the purest and highest type of Christian man. He became a Christian early in life and was an active and consecrated one. He placed himself and all he had on the altar of service. Mr. Shepperson had been a member of Immanuel Baptist Church since its organization as a mission twenty years ago, was senior deacon, treasurer of the Sunday-school and was identified with all branches of the church's work. He was also a Pythian and a member of McCarthy Council, Royal Arcanum. cil, Royal Arcanum

His Family.

Mr. Shepperson is survived by his wife and one daughter. He had been twice married. His first wife, who died many years ago, was Miss Lucy Tenser. They had one son, Charles Edward, who died some years ago, leaving three daughters and two sons. The second wife, who survives, was Miss Alice Clayton. The only daughter is Miss Grace Shepperson.

The funeral will take place from Immanuel Baptist Church this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The service will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Stone. The pall-bearers will be the deacons—Messrs. John O. Sale, W. M. Foster, J. B. Waithall, L. W. Dorset, S. B. Woodfin and Byron T. Goodman, with Messrs. James and Robert Whittet, the younger members of the firm of which the deceased had so long been a part.

NASHVILE, TENN., April 27.—Forme Governor Alvin Hawkins, aged eighty three years, died to-day at his home in Huntingdon, Tenn.

Alvin Hawkins was born in Bath coun

Alvin Hawkins was born in Bath county, Kentucky, December 2, 1821, the son of John M. and Polly G. Hawkins. In 1828 the family moved to Maury county, and in 1828 to Carroll county, Tenn. Young Hawkins did farm work and assisted his father in blacksmithing. He succeeded, however, in procuring a good education, and for a time taught school. Thereafter he read law, and in 1843 was admitted to the bar.

The public career of Mr. Hawkius began in 1853, when he was elected a member of the General Assembly of Tennessee. He was an elector on the Bell and Everett ticket in 1860. Two years later he was elected to Congress as a Unionist, but irrogularities in the election debarred him from the scat. For a year he served as United States district attorney for the Western District of Tennesseo. In 1833 he was appointed United States consul-seneral at Hayana, which position he resigned in the following year.

From 1865 to 1868, and again in 1869-70, he was a judge of the Supreme Court of Tennessee. In 1861 he was elected Governor on the Republican ticket. He was defeated for the ensuing term.

IN MEMORIAM.

IN MEMORIAM.

On the morning of April 22d, 1905, our Heavenly Father called to his eternal reward the beloved rector of the Church of the Diphany, Barton Heights, Va., Rev. Christman, Robert Kuyk.

While to this dispensation of Almighty God we bow with humble and submissive all his works, yet, we are deeply sensible of the great and painful loss we have sustained in the death of our pastor and friend. Our vestry has been deprived of a wise counsellor, our congregation of a warm and sympathete spiritual adviser, the church of a fulthful and powerful exponent of her teachings.

God had endowed him with spiendid native gifts; a thinker of rare power, with an imagination beautiful in its conception of God and his redeeming love; with a vision clear and firm in its grass of spiritual truth, and with a faculty of presenting powerfully the truth as he saw it to his hearers.

He was in all respects a great preacher. We feel that no servant of God has preached the Gospel of love with more tenderness and sweetness than he and in the strength of that love which he preached he was at all times strong and tender and true.

In the latter years of his life God had laid upon him a heavy affliction which none but himself knew how grievous it was to bear. Under it and through it has struggled manfully, courageously and uscomplainingly. When at last one only hope of relier was held out to him under the surgeous knife, havely and fearlessly he gave himself to field had called him home.

In his life he was faithful, valiant and heroic; in his death he was triumphant. He approached his death

"Like one that wraps the drapery of his and led down to pleasant droams."

He approached his death
"Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant droams."
We thank God for the beauliful example of his patience; for the herole exhibition of his faith, and for the simple, yet sublime, testimony which he bore to his confidence in his risen Lord.
To his family we tender our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereevement, and commend them to the tender mercles of our Heavenly Father, whom their love one so faithfully followed.
Resolved, That this tribute to our beloved rector be spread upon the minutes of the vestry and a copy be sent to his family.
